BUZZ WORTHY

Oakland Art Murmur isn't your typical art gallery. What started as an effort to promote the arts has turned into a collective collection of 39 art galleries in six districts that is sure to provide plenty of visual stimulation. Take the guided walking tours offered on the third Saturday of each month. Each tour is led by a variety of gallery directors, curators, artists, and critics, with August showcasing exhibits in the Temescal neighborhood conducted by Susannah Magers of Royal NoneSuch Gallery. ## SUITE STAY

Nestled into the San Francisco Bay, you'll find twinkling lights and shimmering water accentuating the already beautiful Hotel Vitale. Inside the eight-story stunner, guests can wine and dine on handcrafted Italian cuisine at the Americano Restaurant & Bar, or relax in the swank Terrace Studios to get a look at some of San Francisco's most iconic landmarks: Treasure Island, the Ferry Building and the Bay Bridge. What time is check-in? hotelvitale.com

BAYSIDE BEAUTY

Escape the fast lane at the Spa at Casa Madrona, perched hillside in the charming town of Sausalito, and treat yourself to its signature service: the Sea to Shore Massage, which incorporates natural earth and water elements found in the Bay Area. Drift off to the relaxing scents of rosemary, cypress and wild ginger that accompany this Swedish-style massage. Trust us! casamadrona.com

FRESHLY PRESSED

Looking around at the abundance of farming and agriculture in California, Phoebe Croxton and Ryan Armistead decided to dive into the world of cold-pressed juices—and that's how Happy Moose Juice was born. The unique and memorable juice company can be found in pop-up shops in some of the city's most interesting restaurants and bars. With tongue-in-cheek favorites like the Kale Earnhardt, Strawberry Fields and Chard Knock Life, sipping on these juices is sure to entice a smile. happymoosjuice.com
